

Over 10,000 defective ballots for Governor were cast in the Massachusetts election. Two-thirds of these were marked incorrectly for the Republican candidate, and if legal would have defeated Governor Russell.

Nobody will deny that Mr. Cleveland is growing more valiant with advancing years. For instance, he has just got his gun and marched on Virginia, whereas thirty years ago he hired a substitute to do the same thing for him.

President Harrison has expressed a wish that his recent affliction be regarded as a private, not a public affair, which makes it probable that beyond the month of mourning agreed upon by the Vice-President and the Cabinet there will be no social recognition of it.

Thomas Dolan, a well-known wool manufacturer of Philadelphia, made a speech before the Clover Club just after the election. The Clover Club is a free and easy institution, where speakers are subjected to all sorts of humorous or would-be humorous interruptions. Mr. Dolan was asked, as he began, why it snowed the day after the election. He did not say that it was because it was a cold day for the country when the Republicans got left, but he said this:

PUBLIC OPINION

IF you have friends visiting you, or if you are going away on a visit, please drop us a note to that effect.

Rev. C. S. Lucas was in Augusta yesterday.

Officer John Mangin is at Georgetown, O., to-day.

Colonel Charles B. Childs was in the city yesterday.

T. P. Courtney of Ripley is in the city, the guest of friends.

Bedford Hedges of Paris has been in the city a day or so.

Marshall J. W. Thompson of Ripley was in the city last night.

Captain George Collier has returned from a trip to Chicago.

H. W. Seerit, Postmaster at Concord, was in the city yesterday.

Harry Holmes and mother are at the bedside of Captain W. H. Holmes at New Harmony, O.

Mr. and Mrs. George Monahan of Augusta spent yesterday here, the guests of Mrs. H. Martin.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Strode have returned from a visit to their son, L. G. Strode, in Fayette county.

ENGLISH AS SHE IS WRITTEN.
A maiden who were a blue jay,
Enjoyed any kind of a joke,
She was tickled enough
And exclaimed, "That's the stouph,"
And other like sentiments spoke.

REGULAR monthly meeting of City Council to-night.

ERENGE GRAY, colored boy, burned to death at Hopkinsville.

LEXINGTON and Danville have each adopted sanitation.

PAT SHEA, 34, of Paris, has been sent to the asylum at Lexington.

A FIRE at Richmond has shipped over ten thousand turkeys to date.

W. L. MORAN is an applicant for reappointment as Postmaster at Morangburg.

JAMES L. WILSON, ex-Sheriff of Graves county, died of heart disease at Murray.

BARDWILLE has fifteen hundred inhabitants, and yet is without a public cemetery.

JAMES TAYLOR, the Marshal of Hustonville, who killed Bill Powers the tough, has been acquitted.

Mrs. N. MONTAGUE of Morehead is hunting for her husband, who has been missing for several days.

SMITH KING of Fayette married Miss Amanda Hunter of Clark county. She was just 14 years old.

Mrs. THOMAS LOAN of Ironton eloped with Constable Clinton Miller of that place, both leaving families.

The horn of Mrs. A. C. Tyler was buried near Adairville, with twelve valuable horses, involving a loss of $4,000.

J. WALLACE BARNES of Owsingville killed a hog that weighed 475 pounds. If any of our Macon farmers can equal or exceed this let them report to this office.

In digging a trench in Covington a workman came upon a copper kettle containing a silver half dollar and a silver quarter, coined during the administration of President Adams.

HAVE you seen the beautiful pictures of the interior of the M. E. Church, South, taken just after dedication? For sale by Broke. Let everybody secure one and thus assist the Ladies' Mite Society in getting their new carpet.

At the meeting of the Macon County Teachers' Association on December 10 Professor Alfred of Ripley will deliver an address entitled "Random Thoughts." The Superintendent will pay teachers their monthly salary at the High School on the above date during recess.

EN. WHITZINGER and Miss Lettie Vance were married at 9 o'clock last night at the residence where the groom had recently erected in the Sixth Ward an altarpiece of his marriage. Rev. C. S. Lucas officiating. Reasonable refreshments were served and it was a very pleasant affair.

THE OLD SIXTEENTH.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE FAMOUS REGIMENT YESTERDAY.

In Times of Peace Still True to Principles—The Happy Gathering of a Band Whose Friendship is Indelible.

neglected, in registering, to give their residence and some the number of their Company:

Colonel Charles A. Marshall, Washington.
John Lauer, Joplin, Mo.
George Lee, Brookville.
Nash Quinlan, Brookville.
High Land, Germantown.
Randolph Wilson, Brookville.
Lemon Dye, Paris.
Nathan Hoover, Brookville.
George W. Jones, Bowling Green.
James A. Ruppel, Bethany, Mo.
James A. Wines, Fort Grove, Ore.
John Martin, Germantown.
Matt Martin, Germantown.
Robert Patterson, Brookville.
Nathan Cooper, Bradford.
Compagny
W. A. Leard, Flemingsburg.
G. M. DeGarmo, Cincinnati.
George Berts, Mayfield.
G. Campbell, Sardin.
John Burns, Oakwoods.
John W. Dodson, Alvin, Kans.
James Ward, Shannon.
T. C. Grier, Sardin.

The Third Annual Reunion of the survivors of the Sixteenth Kentucky Regiment was held in this city yesterday. This regiment became famous during the war for the courage and loyalty of its members. Now in times of peace they are none the less valiant and none the less devoted to the principles for which they so nobly battled. Once in every year those who are still spared meet, exchange greetings and renew and make more binding the everlasting friendships.

This year, for the second time since their organization as a body, they honored the city of Mayville with their presence. A large crowd of them was present, but they have become so scattered in person, though not in soul, during the intervening years that it is impossible for them all or indeed a majority of them to attend these annual reunions.

The comrades assembled in the G. A. R. Hall yesterday morning and promptly at 11 o'clock were called to order by Captain M. C. Hutchins of this city, Chairman of the Association. The report of the Secretary, H. C. Weaver of Brookville, was read and approved.

The roll was then called by the Secretary. After an immense amount of toll and trouble Mr. Weaver has succeeded in compiling a complete roster of the regiment which contains the name, rank, Postoffice address and the Company to which he belonged of every man in the regiment who is still among the living and also a record of those who have passed away. Before commencing the roll call those present were asked to inform the Secretary of any change of residence of any of the comrades during the past year. Every now and then as a name was called out loud and clear some one would give the information that the old soldier denied had removed from the former home, but most frequently the response, when there was one, was that silent and simple word, yet so full of significance, "Dead." And so it would be marked. How soon the time will come when there will be one to call the roll and none to answer "Dead!"

While the roll call was being proceeded with, Captain Hutchins announced that the venerable Colonel of the regiment, Charles A. Marshall of this city, was in the city, and appointed Dr. S. M. Cartwright of this city, Chairman of the local committee, and G. M. DeGarmo of Cincinnati a committee to go after and bring him to the hall. His entrance with the committee a few minutes later was the signal for a storm of applause. He was escorted to the front and given a seat of honor, and for a while held an impromptu reception, everyone of his old comrades being eager to greet the Colonel and take him by the hand.

At the conclusion of the roll call, the Treasurer, George N. Crawford of this city, made his report showing receipts and disbursements up to and including the reunion of 1891. The report showed the receipts from all sources to have been $180.63; the expenditures $115.83, leaving a balance of $64.80. A report for contributions from those present to enable the Treasurer to meet the expenses of this reunion, and also to enable the Secretary to have printed and distributed among the members the roster, as completed by that Christian gentleman, was made. It is possible to make it, met with liberal responses.

The election of officers was declared in order and resulted as follows: M. C. Hutchins and C. L. Overley were placed in nomination for Chairman. A division of the house showed a majority in favor of Captain Hutchins. C. L. Overley was honored by being unanimously chosen Vice-President. H. C. Weaver and G. N. Crawford were unanimously re-elected Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

Colonel Marshall not being able to attend the dinner, and all wishing him to speak to them, he made a short address full of tender and loving expressions of his gratification at the reception given him, and of sound, fatherly advice. The meeting then adjourned to dinner, which had been beautifully prepared at Neptune Hall.

The following is a list of those who were present. Some of the comrades

THE OLD SIXTEENTH.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE FAMOUS REGIMENT YESTERDAY.

In Times of Peace Still True to Principles—The Happy Gathering of a Band Whose Friendship is Indelible.

prints of the Sixteenth Kentucky, during the first two years of its service, cannot be traced. A detailed division of our army designated as the Department of the West, and wherever distinguished themselves the Sixteenth Kentucky was conspicuous for its gallantry.

The severe trials and hardships endured by this army during the campaign of 1861, which resulted in the capture of Knoxville and the permanent occupation of that Tennessee, are still fresh in our memory.

The campaign of 1862 was characterized by sanguinary engagements, but was remarkable for long, difficult and laborious marches over almost impassable mountain roads, through a winter of cold and snow.

During the occupation of the valley of East Tennessee that winter, and particularly about the city of Knoxville, the privations and sufferings of the regiment were almost without parallel.

The brigade to which the Sixteenth Kentucky belonged, by granting a bold front at Loudon, impeded Lieutenant's progress until Burnside had partially completed the fortifications at Knoxville.

Then took up a position at Kingston, where it successfully contended with Wheeler's cavalry, while the thunder of the guns at Knoxville told of the siege of that city.

The regiment sustained loss at Kingston and later on at Mow Creek.

After the regular re-enlistment, it was granted a thirty days leave of absence and returned to the city of Knoxville.

East Tennessee, reaching Knoxville April 10th, was met by the grand army of the Union, and joined the grand army May 14th under the command of General Grant.

At the battle of Stones River, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as well as from disease.

The third time it was ordered to the siege of the city of Vicksburg, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, commanded by General R. S. Johnson, Third Division, commanded by General J. D. Cox, Twenty-third Army Corps, commanded by General J. M. Schofield, the Sixteenth Kentucky distinguished itself in the capture of the United States Arsenal.

It continued in this brigade until the close of the war, never was a brigade division or corps more skillfully or heroically commanded.

It was constantly engaged in skirmishing, and participated in the engagements known as the days Battle of the Clouds, the Battle of the Wilderness, the Battle of the Crater, and the Battle of the Appomattox.

During this campaign the regiment suffered fearful losses in killed, wounded and missing, as

WHAT THE EDITOR SAYS

Public Ledger

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY, BY THE PUBLIC LEDGER CO.

WILLIAM H. COX, President.
THOMAS A. DAVIS, Vice-President.

WILLIAM H. WADSWORTH, Jr., Secretary and Treasurer.
THOMAS A. DAVIS, Editor and Manager.

RAMSEY T. HICKMAN, Asst. Editor and Bookkeeper.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS
WILLIAM H. COX, A. M. WADSWORTH, JR.,
W. M. COCHRAN, THOMAS A. DAVIS.

OFFICE—Public Ledger Building, No. 10 East Third Street.

SUBSCRIPTIONS—IN ADVANCE.
One Year, $3 00
Six Months, 1 50
Three Months, 75

DELIVERED BY CARRIER.
For Month, 30 Cents
Payable to carrier at end of month.

TO ADVERTISERS.
Advertising rates uniform and reasonable and made known on application at the office.

A Word to Republicans.

The hope of the party lies in the expression of a substantial Republican press. The Republic has no real or effective basis to support a Democratic paper in the election of one of his own party newspapers to unite in the Republican cause.

Unanimously subscribed in by the National Republican League.

J. S. CLARKSON, President.
A. B. HUMPHREY, Secretary.

THE LEDGER.

It is the largest daily paper printed in Louisville—costs the nation and measures their length.

It gives you more news than any other.

It is sold at the same price as any other Louisville paper—the cost a copy or 25 cents a month, delivered by carrier or sent by mail.

If you are looking for the most for your money, you will get it in THE LEDGER.

Now is the time to subscribe. Give it a month's trial.

Circulation More Than 1,000 Daily.

A WELL-KNOWN Republican is quoted as saying that it would be "bad politics" for the Senate to pass any of the measures.

Worse Than Bad Politics. adopted by the Democratic House of Representatives.

It would be worse than bad politics. It would be cowardly, dishonorable, treacherous politics. It would be playing into the hands of the Democracy and doing the work which they are afraid to undertake.

It would be giving them an opportunity two years hence and four years hence to extort the results of blundering legislation with the plea of Republican acquiescence.

No—not politics alone, but common sense, dignity and decency demand that the Republican Senate shall not assume Democratic responsibilities. But, as The New York Press says, even if Senators should be found sufficiently craven and lacking in backbone and self-respect as to surrender their principles, the Nation has for a Chief Magistrate a man who has never failed in maintaining his convictions as citizen or soldier, in war or in peace.

Does any Democrat expect the Republicans to be less faithful to the creed of their party than the Democrats were to theirs? Four years ago the Democratic Congress had passed the Miller Tariff bill, making radical reductions in the Tariff. They had appealed to the country to sustain them and were defeated. One month after Mr. HARRISON's election, the defeated party met in the last session of the Fifty-second Congress. Did any representative Democrat then suggest that in view of the popular verdict it was the duty of the Democratic majority in the House to go over, horse, foot and dragons, to the Republican side, and frame and pass Protective Tariff laws? So proportionate a thing was not thought of by any Democrat or suggested by any Republican.

Yet this is the exact course now recommended to Republican Senators by the Free-traders. We do not believe that a single Republican Senator worthy of his place will take counsel of the enemy, or wish to share the responsibility of the legislation to which the Democratic party is committed.

According to a decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania a host cannot be punished for giving liquor to his guest on Sunday.

SPECIAL PLANS

To be Submitted to the Monetary Conference.

Senator Jones Prepares them for the Use of the Committee.

Important Measures Sent in by the Danish Delegation to the Committee in Charge of the Rothschild Proposition Falls to Agree.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE.

TRY YOUR HAND AT OFFERING—GOLD GIVEN AWAY.

Who Will be the Next Marshall, Collector and Treasurer and Assessor—The Ledger's Scheme for Your Advancement.

In order that the readers of THE LEDGER may have some direction with which to occupy their minds, and desiring at the same time to attract public attention to our new paper, we have concluded to propose a guessing contest, and hope that our subscribers and readers may become interested in our effort to attract attention.

Public interest during the next few weeks will be more concentrated in the ensuing city election than in any other local matter, and we have, therefore, selected that as the basis of our guessing contest.

We have selected as the races to be guessed upon these three: City Marshal, Collector and Treasurer and Assessor, for the reason that they seem to be the most complicated, and more interest will probably be manifested in them, as there are three or more candidates for each office. The outcome in these cases will be harder to anticipate, and, therefore, our scheme will prove the more interesting.

For the office of City Marshal there are six candidates announced, as follows: M. E. McKelvey, E. W. Fitzgerald, John W. Alexander, John V. Day, James Redmond and W. B. Dawson.

For Collector and Treasurer there are three contestants: E. A. Cochran, Jr., James W. Fitzgerald and Horatio P. Cook.

Also three for Assessor: Charles D. Shepard, Fred W. Bauer and John Walsh.

There are 125 votes registered.

We propose to give in prizes $10 in gold, as follows:

The first prize of $10 in gold will be given to the first person who names the winner in each contest and also guesses nearest to the exact number of votes cast for each candidate.

A second prize of $5 in gold will be given to the person making the next best guess.

A third prize of $2 in gold will be given to the person making the third best guess.

In making guesses the following rules must be observed:

First—All guesses must be made out on the following form out from THE LEDGER and forwarded by mail or handed in person to this office.

Second—Guesses must be made in each of the three contests in order to receive consideration.

Third—Your name and Postoffice address must be signed at the bottom of your guess.

Fourth—Be sure and fill out the date.

In awarding the second and third prizes no account of the time they are received will be taken into consideration. These prizes will be given to those entitled to them by reason of their guesses, no matter at what time said guesses are received.

All guesses must be made so that they will reach this office by 5 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, December 31st, 1892.

Any one, man, woman or child, can guess. Fill out the blank as indicated and out it out and forward by mail to PUBLIC LEDGER, Louisville, Ky., or hand in person to this office.

THE LEDGER.

I PREDICT THAT

RECEIVING

WILL BE ELECTED MARSHAL.

RECEIVING

I PREDICT THAT

RECEIVING

WILL BE ELECTED COLLECTOR AND TREASURER.

RECEIVING

I PREDICT THAT

RECEIVING

WILL BE ELECTED ASSESSOR.

RECEIVING

Signed

THE fire company of Ripley will soon put a popular play on the stage.

DURING the recent visit of Superintendent Blatterman to school No. 28 at Lewisburg, he, after reviewing the school, delivered an address to the scholars upon the character and services of General Washington, enjoining upon the scholars the duty to hold in highest respect and veneration his character as an important factor in cultivating a spirit of patriotism.

At the close of the address, the Superintendent presented a life-size portrait, in oil, of Washington, to remain forever a permanent ornament in the schoolroom, and as a recognition of the liberality and enterprise of the citizens of the district in erecting an elegant and commodious schoolhouse.

The Quickest Way to Cure a Cold.

To cure a cold, the quickest way to cure a cold? We will tell you. To cure a cold quickly, it must be treated before the cold has become settled in the system. The first symptoms of a cold is a dry, loud coughing and sneezing. The cough is soon followed by watery expectoration and the sneezing by a profuse watery discharge from the nose. In severe cases there is a white coating on the tongue. What to do? It is only necessary to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to double doses every hour. That will greatly lessen the severity of the cold and in many cases will effectually counteract it and cure what would have been a severe cold in one or two days. Try it and be convinced. F. W. Reynolds.

Another Jockey Ruled off.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Jockey Money was ruled off at Hawthorne Wednesday for palpably pulling Toppalant, an odds-on favorite, under the judges' eyes. The boy was suspended a few days ago, but was allowed to ride Toppalant at Tom Griffin's request.

Stunned by Powder.

JEFFERSONVILLE, O., Dec. 1.—Boy Boughton, a boy 16 years old, was out hunting, and after coming into the house sat down and began popping his gun. A bottle of powder fell out of his pocket, and striking the fire, exploded, burning him in a frightful manner.

Going to the Insanatorium.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 1.—The Baltimore American has information that the Baltimore Police and Pennsylvania State have already contracted for the transportation of nearly 500,000 people to the Insanatorium of Mr. Cleveland.

HEAVY FORGERIES.

A Bank Man's Son Uses His Father's Signature for $100,000.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 1.—George A. Morse, of this city, a well known real estate dealer and loan agent for eastern capitalists, has confessed that he has forged his father's signature to paper aggregating $100,000, all of which has been negotiated with local banks and money lenders. It is also stated that he has embezzled large sums of money entrusted to him by eastern capitalists, as well as considerable sums collected by him as interest on loans made for clients.

George is the son of Eliza Morse, a wealthy resident of this city, now temporarily sojourning in San Francisco, and who formerly was in business with his son here, under the name of Eliza Morse & Son. All efforts have been made by the parties holding the spurious paper to keep the matter quiet, in the hope that the father of the forger would make the paper good. This hope, it is understood, has been dashed by the receipt of a letter from him, in which he denounces his son as a forger, and says that he should be placed behind the bars. No arrest has been made, but it is said it will soon follow.

Among losers it is said are E. W. Herick, who has $100,000 of the paper; the First National Bank of Minneapolis, and the National Bank of Commerce. These parties are all able to stand their losses, but it is said that one party, whose name is unknown, is ruined.

Morse's downfall is said to be attributable to gambling. He has stood high in social and business circles here, and the affair creates a great sensation.

MARRIED IN JAIL.

A Condemned Murderer and His Wife the Principals.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 1.—A sad but interesting marriage ceremony was performed at the jail Wednesday morning. Stephen H. Hite, who is to die in the electric chair next week for the murder of a woman, was married to a girl, whose name is unknown, in the death section, and Father Brady performed the solemn service in the Catholic church.

Hite wrote for his wedding suit the one in which he will also die. By his side stood his pretty little daughter, and three other doomed men and the death watch were the only witnesses. Holy communion was first administered by Father Rudy. Tuesday afternoon the prisoner and his little daughter were received into the church. The wife and mother was already a member, and it was at her request that the marriage occurred Wednesday morning.

DRAW STRAWS FOR THE WIDOW.

MAKOUTAH, Ill., Dec. 1.—Josiah Erlinger and Dene Pellatir, two industrious citizens of Centerville station, have long been rivals for the heart and hand of a handsome widow of that village. Between the two admirers the widow was delightfully uncertain which to choose. She was unable to make a choice between them, and the suitors settled the matter in a very simple manner. They drew straws, and mutually agreed to faithfully abide by the result. The ceremony was simple, and the wedding will take place in a short time.

Robbing Chicago Suburbs.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—A daring gang of burglars visited the little town of Mayfair, six miles out, on the Northwestern line, between 12 o'clock Tuesday night and 5 o'clock Wednesday morning, and robbed the residence of three well known citizens, the post office and the village store. The total amount of the robberies, it is believed, is in the neighborhood of $5,000. The thieves used a wagon to carry off their plunder.

Lost and Glimpses to Wed.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 1.—Col. Gilbert Unzale, Reedland, of Chippewa, Mex., 7 feet 3 inches in height and weighing 400 pounds, and Miss Emma Bosman, of Sauk Centre, Minn., whose height is just two inches less than that of her intended, are to be married at the cathedral December 8. The groom is a grain grower, and has been very successful in business ventures. The couple have known each other about two years.

Another Worthless Package.

GALVESTON, Tex., Dec. 1.—Wednesday morning the same Wells-Fargo express which brought the bundle of newspaper from Kountze Bros., New York, to the Island City savings bank, of this city, Tuesday night, which robbers snatched for $10,000 in gold cash, brought a similar package from the National Bank of New York to Hall, Hightaling & Co., which should have contained $2,000.

Jay Would Verily Kill.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Wall Street was disturbed by stories of the condition of Jay Gould's health. One rumor which found some believers until it was officially contradicted, averred that the financier's health was so bad that he would die. The rumor was that Mr. Gould is a very sick man. Gould stocks were all unfavorably affected by the news regarding the condition of the financial head of these corporations.

Collapse of Monetary Conference Predicted.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The Standard's financial article says: "The silver market is not favorably impressed with Mr. De Rothschild's scheme. The more the scheme is examined the more patients become its impracticability. The collapse of the monetary conference is expected in all thoughtful circles."

He Has a Carriage.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Dec. 1.—Geo. Little, residing at Horden, ten miles from the city, placed a 45-caliber cartridge in a Minnie's gun and exploded it by striking the charge with a hammer. The ball pierced the region of Little's back, and now he is suffering great agony.

Wages Increased.

AMERSTUT, Mass., Dec. 1.—The Hamilton Woolen Co., controlling sixteen mills here, has increased the wages of all employees, except spinners, seven per cent. The spinners were given an increase of ten per cent. recently.

Presidential Campaign of 1892!

GRAND INDUCEMENTS TO READERS OF THE PUBLIC LEDGER.

The Presidential Campaign of 1892 will, without doubt, be the most intensely interesting and exciting in the history of the United States, and country people will be extremely anxious to have all the GENERAL and POLITICAL NEWS and discussions of the day as presented in a National Journal, in addition to that supplied by their own local paper.

To meet this want we have entered into a contract with the

NEW YORK WEEKLY TRIBUNE

The Leading Republican Paper of the United States!

which enables us to offer that splendid journal (regular subscription price $1 per year) and THE PUBLIC LEDGER for one year

FOR ONLY $3 25 A YEAR, CASH IN ADVANCE.

"N. Y. Weekly Tribune," regular price per year, $1 00

"Public Ledger," " " " 3 00

TOTAL.....$4 00

We Furnish Both Papers One Year for $3 25.

SUBSCRIPTIONS MAY BEGIN AT ANY TIME.

This is most liberal combination offer ever made in the United States, and every reader of THE PUBLIC LEDGER should take advantage of it at once.

The money must, in all cases, accompany the orders.

Address all orders to THE PUBLIC LEDGER, MAYSVILLE, KY.

NOTICE!

Our Mr. White having purchased the store property we are in, and desiring to remodel same for greater capacity and convenience in handling our business, which cannot well be done with the stock in the house, we propose to sell for the next few days

FURNITURE at COST and CARRIAGE.

Come and see us. Respectfully,

WHITE, JUDD & CO.

SEASONABLE DRY GOODS, FANCY AND STAPLE

CARPETS, OIL CLOTHS, MATTINGS,

And Housekeeping Goods Generally Always on Hand

AND FOR SALE BY

George Cox & Son.

McCLANAHAN & SHEA,

—DEALERS IN—

MANTELS, STOVES, GRATES,

Tinware, Tin Roofing, Guttering and Spouting.

JOE/WORK OF ALL KINDS Executed in the best manner.

L. C. BLATTERMAN. OLDEST HOUSE IN THE CITY. W. F. POWER.

BLATTERMAN & POWER,

SOLE AGENTS FOR MILLER'S MONITOR RANGES,

—AND DEALERS IN— MANTELS, STOVES, GRATES, ICE CREAM FREEZERS,

Refrigerators, Washing Machines, Wringers and Kitchen Scales. We will not be undersold. All goods guaranteed as represented. Tin Roofing, Guttering and general Job Work. 28 and 30 W. Second Street. MAYSVILLE, KY.

